Set to unveil comprehensive plan to return country to fiscal discipline

WASHINGTON, D.C. – On Monday, June 7, 2010, Congressman Charlie Wilson (OH-6) will unveil a comprehensive package of bills designed to put our country back on a path of fiscal responsibility. He will go over a three pronged approach to tackling our nation's debt, which currently stands at more than $13 trillion.

Wilson understands that working families know how to manage their finances in tough economic times. He believes that the federal government should follow some of those same principles and make common sense spending decisions, trim the fat from the federal budget, and finally start to chip away at the expanding debt.

The Congressman will debut the comprehensive package of legislation at two locations on Monday. His schedule is as follows:

10:30 a.m. Steel Trolley
140 E. Lincoln Way
Lisbon

1:30 p.m. Paddy's Diner
2210 Commercial Avenue
Mingo Junction
