Congressman Wilson to Host Free Small Business Seminar in East Liverpool
"How to Get Through the Recession"

WASHINGTON, D.C. – In the current tough and uncertain economic climate, many small businesses are struggling. To offer some help, Congressman Charlie Wilson (OH-6) will host a free small business seminar in cooperation with the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA). Wilson will discuss how to qualify for and obtain loans, how to sell products to the government, how to develop a business plan, and how to access capital using new tools from the SBA.

"Small businesses are the backbone of our local economies," Wilson said. "I hope this seminar answers some questions and helps our small businesses."

Media are welcome and encouraged to attend this event.
